100 YEARS

A CENTURY OF KIDS. A FUTURE OF LEADERS.

A 2009-2010 Report to our Community

OUR MISSION

Camp Fire USA builds caring, confident youth and future leaders.

DEAR FRIENDS AND SUPPORTERS,

In 2010, Camp Fire USA reached a milestone that few other organizations have achieved. Our 100th anniversary is a testament to our ability to create programs that build character, develop healthy lifestyles and respond to the emerging needs of our community. Today, poised to enter our second century, Camp Fire has never been more relevant, more responsive or more essential than it is today.

Amid both the joys and the stresses of an ever-changing and fast-paced life, Camp Fire anchors our children's world. We give them wings as they explore ways to enjoy and protect our earth's natural resources, develop the compassion and drive to help others, and grow into caring and thoughtful adults to lead tomorrow's world.

We also understand that our commitment to shaping strong girls and boys must include a commitment to strengthening their families. That's why our programs also include outreach to parents and communities for those children who need us the most. And it's why we partner with schools, community groups, nonprofit organizations and others to meet those needs as effectively and efficiently as possible. We especially want to thank Jane White Vulliet for her important contributions toward these goals and for her service to our Council as CEO from 2006 to 2010, as we plan for new leadership in 2011.

You – our donors, alumni and volunteers – are vital partners in our mission. Revenue from our camp and group programs covers less than half the costs of providing Camp Fire opportunities to the children and families we serve. Your support is critical to our ability to deliver our programs throughout the community.

As our new century dawns, we resolve to be even better stewards of your investment and your confidence in Camp Fire. Our children are counting on us.

Sincerely,

Russ Woodruff, Board President

CAMP FIRE THROUGH THE DECADES

1910s

Camp Fire is founded as an organization for girls with no racial barriers and a non-sectarian focus that was unique in its day and a model for others even now.

1920s The Council purchases its first office – a retired World War I wooden supply ship moored in Lake Union.

1930s We become one of the first organizations in the region to provide quality outdoor experiences for children with special medical needs.

1940s

Girls begin selling doughnuts (later, candy and mints) to help support Camp Fire activities.

1950s Camp Fire reaffirms its commitment to religious and racial inclusiveness within all segments of our membership, leading the nation among nonprofits.

1960s To celebrate its 50th anniversary, Camp Fire nationally plants more than 2 million trees, builds 13,000 bird houses and completes several other conservation-oriented projects.

1970s

In the spirit of inclusivity, Camp Fire welcomes boys.

1980s The first Saturday Club opens to serve children with disabilities.

1990s Youth Volunteer Corps is formed as a service learning program for teens.

2000s Community Family Clubs begin.

2010

Camp Fire USA and the Central Puget Sound Council celebrate their Centennial.

WHAT A CENTURY, WHAT A YEAR!

A GLIMPSE OF CAMP FIRE'S CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Our Centennial was quite the celebration – Camp Fire style. First, there was our annual Leadership Breakfast with an inspiring keynote address by award-winning author Sherman Alexie. Next came a spring harbor cruise aboard Argosy's Celebrations to thank our supporters. We celebrated the peak of our Centennial year with a council fire at Magnuson Park in July, where more than 600 alumni and guests set "dreamboats" sailing into Lake Washington (above photograph). And we wrapped it all up with our Centennial Gala Auction, which raised more than $161,000 for Camp Fire programs. Thanks to the participation of all our friends and supporters, old and new, it was a year-long birthday party to remember.

*Camp Fire Group: The Busy Bees
Celebrate 100 Years*

I still remember cooking eggs and bacon over a camp fire. Being in Camp Fire gave me the chance to experience things I wouldn't have otherwise. It also kept me closer to my mother, who was our group leader. When I got older, I carried on the tradition with my own daughter, now 20. My husband, Pat, and I have continued to support Camp Fire as donors and volunteers because it's good for kids and families. It was certainly good for ours.

CAMP FIRE PROGRAMS

AT A GLANCE

Nearly 13,000 girls and boys in King, Kitsap and North Mason counties are learning to be active, healthy and engaged members of their community thanks to Camp Fire programs.

Group Program keeps children connected to each other and to their communities. More than 115 organized groups met throughout 2010, giving members the chance to participate in educational and recreational programs, earn emblems, sell candy and develop lifelong skills and interests.

Our 14 Community Family Clubs strengthen family bonds, and some address the unique challenges of immigrants and refugees, while Saturday Clubs allow our Special Sitter-trained youth to lead children with disabilities and their siblings in recreational activities.

We believe in the power of nature to awaken a child's senses, curiosity and desire to learn. Our camp and environmental education programs taught 4,029 young people in 2009 about ecosystems, natural diversity and stewardship of the earth, while also developing their leadership skills. Camp Sealth on Vashon Island hosts residential campers. We also have summer day camps at 10 locations in King and Kitsap Counties, where 452 teens volunteered as junior counselors.

Community-service and personal responsibility programs include Youth Volunteer Corps – which engaged 339 middle and high school youth in 62 service learning projects in 2009 – along with education to teach kids to handle peer pressure, manage money, prepare for jobs, make healthy choices and more.

Child care programs kept 170 kids safe and happy before and after school and during summer and school breaks at two school-based centers.

We recognize the benefits for all children to develop understanding and appreciative relationships with youth who have disabilities, special needs or health challenges. That's why we provide financial assistance and reduced fees to four out of ten families who participate in programs designed to meet the unique requirements of children with special needs and their families.

FOUR GENERATIONS AND COUNTING

ONE SEATTLE GROUP EPITOMIZES THE VALUE OF CAMP FIRE GROUP PROGRAM

The longest continuously-operating Camp Fire group in the nation began in 1934 with a gathering of girls at the Seattle Buddhist Church and grew into a program that has touched more than 700 lives.

Founded in 1934, suspended during World War II, then reactivated in 1950, the Seattle Betsuin group now includes great grandchildren of the original members, says Chairman Howard Luke.

Also known as the Seattle Betsuin, this faith community-sponsored Camp Fire club has helped four generations of young people develop leadership, confidence and commitment to service.

Group Program is central to Camp Fire USA's mission. The clubs connect children to each other and to caring adult role models. Young members learn positive values and develop lifelong skills and interests as they participate in a wide variety of activities, sell candy, earn beads and emblems, and do community-service projects.

Seattle Betsuin Camp Fire Group then and now

The 60-some young people in the Church's Camp Fire group today include kindergarteners through high school students. All are involved in community service for the surrounding Asian community, including an annual Walk for Rice fundraiser to supply Asian food staples to the local Asian Counseling and Referral Service (ACRS) Food Bank. Other favorite activities include family camping trips, a youth-led carnival for younger children, and Dad/Kid Weekend.

Howard's three daughters, ages 9 to 17, are members, following in the steps of their mother, Marie Kosai-Luke.

"Camp Fire groups have evolved to keep up with the times, but the purpose they serve remains constant," says Program Manager and Day Camp Coordinator Janelle Kitson.

"Kids will always need a place where they feel welcome and make friends, and of course, Camp Fire is also REALLY fun." She added, "We are so proud of the parental involvement and leadership quality at the Seattle Betsuin. They are simply outstanding and make a huge contribution to the community!"

One of Marie's proudest moments was when her Camp Fire level was the first to receive the Karuna Award, a national religious award for Buddhist Camp Fire boys and girls that was developed by the Seattle Betsuin in 1971.

"Being in Camp Fire, I was able to do things that I would not have done otherwise," says Marie. "It was such a positive part of my life that I wanted my daughters to experience it."
